Union gripe over video puts drivers in the viewfinder

► Bus drivers know it's illegal to talk, text, dial or email using hand-held cellphones while driving, says OC Transpo GM

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

OC Transpo is launching another investigation into a driver's behaviour because of a video posted to YouTube — the second such case in a week.

The video was recorded on the Queensway in mid-August but was posted to YouTube on Monday in the wake of news stories about another video that depicts a driver seemingly threatening and swearing at a passenger, said Gerry Vlug, who posted the second video. Vlug was driving his company truck and passed his iPhone to an employee in the passenger seat, who filmed the operator driving with one hand on the wheel and the other holding a cellphone to his ear.

OC Transpo general manager

Alain Mercier released a statement saying the service is investigating.

"Individuals who do not follow OC Transpo policies and provincial law face disciplinary measures, up to and including dismissal when warranted," Mercier said.

Vlug said he posted the video because he is upset the OC Transpo drivers' union boss said recording drivers violates their privacy, instead of having the problems caught on video dealt with.

"You learn your lesson by admitting your mistake and moving on," Vlug said.

Amalgamated Transit Union Local 279 president Garry Queale said he isn't concerned his response upset the public. "First of all, we don't condone people driving their vehicles while using a cellphone," said Queale. "It's a no-no for us. We don't condone that action. But people have a right to their opinion. They can write whatever they want. It's freedom of speech, I guess."

Queale also said yesterday that after he learned the passenger who was sworn at and threatened by an OC Transpo driver was involved in acting, that the incident caught on video could have been staged — even though the people involved say the angry rant was real and unscripted.

Matthew Taronno, a 20-year-old script-writing student at Algonquin College who is mildly autistic, has said publicly that it was the bus driver who berated him.

On reddit.com, the video poster who goes by darty8 rebutted accusations the video was staged by saying he went to police following the incident. Mercier wrote a letter to city council saying the incident appears genuine.

► A still from the video uploaded to YouTube by Gerry Vlug appears to capture a bus driver speaking on a cellphone while driving.

Campaign takes aim at teen tanning

Local public health officials want teens to love their skin they're in — and stay out of tanning salons.

"We want to target the self-esteem message. We find that's the source of the issue," said Jason Haug, project officer for Ottawa Public Health.

To that end, the agency released three YouTube videos, a contest and a Facebook page yesterday. One video aims to mock tanning by showing a chicken roasting in the oven followed by the message "Bock, bock, bock, burn, tanned skin = damaged skin." Another says indoor tanning before the age of 35 boosts melanoma risk by 75 per cent.

► Bock! Don't get baked, new ads warn.

The campaign is competing against the allure of pop culture, but Haug says shows such as Jersey Shore are no threat.

A group of 17-year-olds at Lisgar Collegiate Institute agreed. They laughed at the chicken video, but one, Christine Heighton, said the melanoma video is the most effective. "They do the scare tactics because they work," she said.

Denis Belanger, owner of Bel-O-Sol Tanning, advises clients to tan in moderation.

"We promote more-or-less safe tanning," he said. "Certainly it's not a good idea to tan every single day, but you need the sun anyways. It does produce vitamin D."

Bring on the beaver fever

► People eat BeaverTails, but beavers don't eat people, local businessman says in rodent's defence

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

The couple behind Ottawa's famed beaver-tail-shaped pastry are standing up to a senator's recent disparagement of the beaver by erecting a monument to the industrious rodent outside their ByWard Market store.

Senator Nicole Eaton called the beaver a "19th-century has-been," a "dentally defective rat" and a "toothy tyrant," among other things, when she argued last month that the polar bear should replace the beaver as Canada's national emblem.

Now BeaverTails co-founders Grant and Pam Hooker are biting back.

Then a Canadian flag hanging behind him was raised to reveal the real monument to the beaver — a billboard with a beaver on it and the word "Canada" in lights — as Hooker continued his ode to the national emblem.

He also took issue with Eaton's complaint about beavers eating the dock at her cottage.

"Anyone in their right

Crosby, Nash and pot still mix well

Musicians David Crosby and Graham Nash delivered a touch of Woodstock to Occupy demonstrations in New York City yesterday.

The white-haired duo led a chant of "No More War!" and played a 20-minute acoustic performance for about 1,000 protesters and onlookers.

An air of nostalgia — and the smell of marijuana — wafted over the crowd as the pair had fans humming along to hits like Teach Your Children Well.

Pete Seeger and Arlo Guthrie have also previously entertained protesters.

Occupy Nova Scotia protesters have moved camp — for now.

The group has packed up their encampment — set up in front of Halifax city hall on Oct. 15 — to a park across downtown.

The move was made so the occupiers wouldn't interfere with Remembrance Day ceremonies.

"If anything, I think this move has actually made us stronger as a community," said John Thibeau, a spokesperson for Occupy Nova Scotia.

But the group does not have access to electricity at

Vet's hunger strike pushes Ottawa to act

The federal government will create a new committee to study veterans' health.

The move comes in the wake of a hunger strike by an ex-soldier who insists he was contaminated by depleted uranium while serving in Bosnia.

Veterans Affairs Minister Steven Blaney made the announcement in Levis, Que., after Pascal Lacoste ended his protest and allowed himself to be taken away in an ambulance yesterday.

Lacoste, who battled to get Ottawa to recognize his uranium poisoning while serving overseas, flashed a two-fingered "victory" sign as he ended his hunger strike.

He swigged grape juice as he was loaded into the ambulance.

Blaney said further details of the new panel will be announced in the next 30 days.

It will comprise academics, medical researchers and soldiers.

"It's a committee that will have a broad mandate," Blaney said, adding he wants to see Lacoste's — and other veterans' — health get better.

Dad sought help to kill daughter, trial told

Weeks before three sisters were found dead in a submerged car, their father asked a relative to help him kill his eldest daughter, a murder trial heard yesterday.

The bodies of sisters, Zainab, 19, Sahar, 17, and Geeti Shafia, 13, and one of their father's two wives were found inside a submerged car on June 30, 2009, in the Rideau Canal in Kingston.

The girls' parents, Tooba

Mohammad Yahya, 41, and Mohammad Shafia, 58, and the girls' brother Hamed, 20, have pleaded not guilty to first-degree murder.

A relative who can't be identified, testified at the Kingston trial that Shafia called him in late May or early June 2009 and asked him to invite Yahya and Zainab to his home, so Shafia could drown Zainab there.

..... DEAR

OVER-CHARGED, UNDER-APPRECIATED, CONTRACT-LOATHING MOBILE PHONE CUSTOMERS.

Yes. You read that headline correctly.

And by “over-charged, under-appreciated, contract-loathing mobile phone customers” we mean a majority of all mobile customers in Canada.

On average, Canadians pay more than twice as much per minute than US mobile customers. Obviously this is something none of you are very happy about. But your collective grumblings haven't gone unheard. Over the past two years we at WIND Mobile have built our business by listening to your issues and then (surprisingly enough) adapting our offerings to meet your needs.*

- That means getting a $0 phone without being shackled to a painful 3-year term contract.
- That means knowing the distances between Canadians seem shorter if there are no long distance charges to pay on our network.
- That means we understand that the way to keep customers with us is not through restrictive contracts, but by offering fair pricing and transparent billing.

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have already turned to WIND. And with each new customer we get the opportunity to listen to a new voice of change. So join us as together we create the plans, the services and the pricing that you deserve.

Huge asteroid zips past Earth

► Humans may want to visit 2005 YU55 because it contains carbon-based materials, possibly frozen water

An asteroid as big as an aircraft carrier zipped by Earth yesterday in the closest encounter by such a massive space rock in more than three decades.

Scientists ruled out any chance of a collision but turned their telescopes skyward to learn more about the object known as 2005 YU55.

Its closest approach to Earth was pegged at a distance of 325,088 kilometres at 6:28 p.m. EST. That's just inside the moon's orbit; the average distance between Earth and the moon is 384,633 kilometres.

The last time a large cosmic interloper came that close to Earth was in 1976, and it won't happen again until 2028.

Scientists at NASA's Deep Space Network in the California desert have tracked the quarter-mile-wide asteroid since last week as it approached from the direction of the sun at 46,671 km/h.

Astronomers and amateur skygazers around the world kept watch, too.

The Clay Center Observatory in Massachusetts planned an all-night viewing party so children and parents could peer through research-grade telescopes and listen to lectures. The asteroid can't be detected with the naked eye.

For those without a telescope, the observatory streamed video of the fly-by live on Ustream, attracting several thousand viewers. The asteroid appeared as a white dot against a backdrop of stars.

Since its discovery six years ago, scientists have been monitoring the spherical, coal-coloured asteroid as it slowly spins through space. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gay tourism ban wiped from B.C. pamphlet

British Columbia's tourism minister was quick to apologize yesterday and to rebuke a government pamphlet that warns the province's businesses not to promote gay tourism to Canada in China.

The pamphlet was issued to B.C. tourism operators last week and is titled How to Market your Business to China.

Midway through the document, it says "Tourism BC will also require that any partner operator agrees to...prohibit the promotion of casinos, gambling and gay tourism, per the China National Tourism Administration."

Pat Bell said yesterday the reference is being removed.

Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi yesterday conceded support to govern and announced he would resign like his Greek counterpart, becoming the biggest political casualty yet of the European debt crisis.

Berlusconi promised to leave office after parliament passes economic reforms demanded by the European Union to keep Italy from sinking into Europe's debt mess. CAN'T BUY ME LOVE BUT IT CAN GET ME AN OLD TOOTH

JUST SAYIN' ...

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

Imagine the world is crazy. It's easy if you try.

In fact, the world is now crazier than anything John Lennon could imagine when he wrote that song.

For example, Lennon probably never imagined that an Alberta dentist would pay $31,200 for his rotten, tartar-infested molar at an auction.

The tooth in question is in such bad condition it can't be DNA-tested. But its provenance is secure. Lennon gave it to his housekeeper to dispose of. She kept it and gave it to her daughter instead. Now the family has sold it to the Tooth Fairy, a.k.a. Michael Zuk, who plans to enshrine it in his waiting room back in Red Deer, along with other historical artifacts, such as stale-dated copies of National Geographic and Canadian Dental Quarterly.

I write this every week, it seems: I am not making this up.

If there was any doubt that celebrities have become the new saints of the reality-show religion, that has been dispelled by this latest dubious purchase.

Every medieval church worth its steeple harbours a shrivelled nose or finger bone, and although no one can actually prove they're parts of a saint, these holy bits and pieces still attract pilgrims, who hope some of that venerated mojo rubs off on them.

John Lennon tried to imagine a world without religion. But we just can't help ourselves. We need to have a higher power — someone to watch over us. It helps to have access to that power, hence the attraction of holy relics. People still believe in the Shroud of Turin, even though it's most certainly a medieval fraud.

But John Lennon's rotten tooth? The martyred Beatle once got himself into hot water for declaring that the Beatles were more popular than Jesus Christ. Imagine he was right. Still, it's no weirder than the shock of Elvis hair that went for $100,000 or Cher's bra that went to the Hard Rock Cafe, or Britney Spears' wad of chewed gum that generated a $14,000 bid on eBay. (Also offered: her half-eaten corn dog and egg-salad sandwich. Yuck.)

Clearly, if you're famous, even for 15 minutes (like Britney), every chunk is priceless. Michael Zuk may have $31,000 less, but he does have an indisputable chunk of the greatest Beatle. Paul McCartney's probably going, "I wonder how much one of my decayed molars is worth?"

Not as much as John Lennon's, pal. Imagine the rest of him is in heaven. We take what we can get.

In some areas of Israel, women have been shunted onto separate sidewalks, and buses and health clinics have been gender-segregated. The military has considered reassigning some female combat soldiers because religious men don't want to serve with them.

This is the new reality in parts of 21st-century Israel, where ultra-Orthodox rabbis are trying to contain the encroachment of secular values on their cloistered society through a fierce backlash against the mixing of the sexes in public.

On the surface, Israel's gender equality bona fides seem strong, with the late Golda Meir as a former prime minister and Tzipi Livni as the current opposition leader. But the World Economic Forum recently released 2009 data stating Israeli women earned two-thirds what men did.

Secularists in Israel worry that their lifestyles could be targeted because the ultra-Orthodox population is growing.

Their high birthrate of about seven children per family is forecast to send their proportion of the population, now estimated at nine per cent, to 15 per cent by 2025.

Peacocks, prostitutes and pot found in Mexico prison

Authorities say a surprise search at an Acapulco prison in Mexico has netted two peacocks, 100 fighting cocks, 19 prostitutes and two sacks filled with marijuana.

Police in the Mexican resort city also found dozens of televisions, several bottles of alcohol and knives.

Guerrero state spokesman Arturo Martinez says federal and state police searched the prison before dawn Monday.

Martinez didn't say how the women, birds and the other banned objects got into the prison.

He referred to the peacocks as "pets."

The resort city has been plagued by crime since last year when gangs began fighting for control after the arrest of Edgar Valdez Villarreal, also known as "La Barbie."

According to Sky News, Guerrero state has the third highest rate of murders in the country, falling behind Chihuahua and Nuevo Leon, both of which are northern border states. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Going to war with Australia

► Questions Dustin Lance Black was none-too-pleased when GQ Australia asked Twilight star Taylor Lautner if Black and openly gay director Gus Van Sant had made a pass at him when the trio had dinner recently. And while the magazine defended itself by claiming they were making light of Lautner's universally accepted hotness, Black still found their apology satisfactory. "They apologized," he says.

► Leonardo DiCaprio, left, director Clint Eastwood and writer Dustin Lance Black conference on the set of J. Edgar.

long love affair with Clyde Tolson.

The film covers a wide span of Hoover's life. When you were writing it, did you know it would be played by Leonardo DiCaprio?

No, in fact I try not to consider casting when I'm writing — especially a biopic like this, when I don't have the opportunity to meet the real guy. It's enough work to try and figure out who he was and get a handle on how he might've been, how he might've talked, the things he might've been thinking and feeling, his behaviour — you know, all that's tough enough.

At what point did you know Leonardo DiCaprio would be playing the part?

Things moved very quickly once I turned in the script. Brian Grazer got it to Clint Eastwood, and while Clint was reading it I got a phone call from my lawyer — who works at the same firm Leo's represented by — and they said, 'Hey, you're not showing this to anyone else, are you?' I mean, I was very excited that it was Leo, if that's what you want to know about, because this movie was supposed to be about subverting some expectations — confirming some things and subverting others — and one of them was this was a young man who was very promising and handsome, and starlets did throw themselves at him and he could get the best seat at the best club in New York when he went. People don't think of Hoover like that.

Chasing an outcome of income

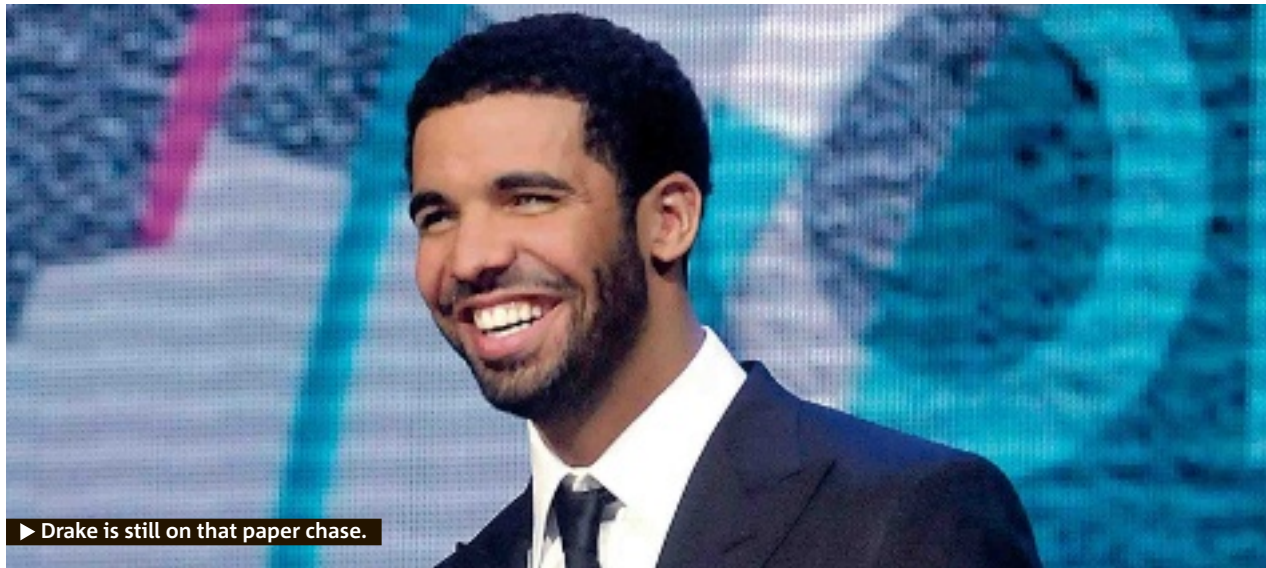

► Drake looking to Take Care of business on latest album ► Despite an early leak, a sales success still expected

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

Drake's highly anticipated sophomore album, Take Care, hit the web earlier this week.

"Are these people really discussin' my career again, asking if I be going platinum in a year again?" he asks in the lead-off track, Over My Dead Body.

Well, yes, they are, because the Canadian rapper has talent on the mic. He combines venomous taunts with philosophical gems like "Jealousy is just love and hate at the same time," and, "You lose some, you win some, as long as the outcome is income." And yeah, both of these pearls are in that same first track.

► Drake is still on that paper chase.

Take Care will most likely end with an outcome of income, as it has guest stars galore that run the gamut from soul legends (Stevie Wonder lends his signature harmonica to Doing it Wrong) to guests that pop music powers-that-be would probably fine you if you didn't use somewhere, such as Riha-na, Nicki Minaj and Lil' Wayne.

When Drake is rapping, he gets to the point fast and his rhymes are often loaded with as many thoughts per minute as any vintage Dylan song, but the songs on Take Care are spacious, and one, Marvin's Room, Buried Alive even clocks in at more than eight minutes. He is also impressively smooth when he is singing.

The beats are tight, and the chorus hooks are spot-on, but the one-liners are really the biggest highlights of this album.

Our favourite?

"You ain't the only one that's trying to be the only one," he says in We'll Be Fine.

The only thing that is jarring on Take Care is when Drake changes the mood entirely. A song like Practice, will start as a smooth R&B jam, but then out of nowhere Drake will drop a line like, "Girl, you look good, why don't you back that ass up?"

Well, this approach has probably worked for Drake in his romantic practice, and it will probably work for him in his career too.

A look inside the mind of comedian Darrell Hammond

► SNL star pens book about being an addict and suffering years of child abuse from his mom ► Memoir isn't a depressing read — wry humour shines through

SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

No one was more shocked than Darrell Hammond when Donald Trump appeared on CNN to discuss the comedian's life.

"I mean, that's like, through the looking glass," Hammond says. "That's like, J.Lo-level. I'm a little stunned by it."

But when you probe into Hammond's life through his new memoir, God, If You're Not Up There, I'm F'cked, all the attention makes sense.

Though the public already knew Hammond for his spot-on impressions of Sean Connery and Bill Clinton, performed during his 14 years on Saturday Night Live, the book reveals shocking details of his personal life as an addict who suffered years of abuse from his mother as a kid.

"In staying silent all those years — most of the time because I didn't really know, because all those memories were repressed — it made me sick. And when people get sick, they exhibit abhorrent behaviour," Hammond says.

"The thing that occurs to me is that abhorrent behaviour is not an airborne virus. You don't get it because you sat on the wrong toilet seat in the subway station.

Something has to occur to have caused it. Suddenly I realized I'm not ashamed of this at all. I've been knocked down on the canvas a number of times and I've never not gotten up."

The book details not only behind-the-scenes moments at SNL, but also darker times, like when Hammond was escorted off-set in a straight jacket.

Yet throughout, amazingly, Hammond maintains a wry humour.

► Darrell Hammond

Now sober and with future plans to appear on TBS's Are We There Yet? Hammond can recall the pain of previous years from the perspective of a man who is finally healing.

"I have a very banal little life," he says happily. "I have a modest apartment and I visit my friends in the diner. Nothing really exciting happens at all, which is fine."

It's nice to not be living in fear of your voice mail — really dark figures that you meet, creatures of the night when you're crawling around the West Village between 4 and 6 a.m.

I call that neighbourhood the hell mouth because that's where I would

SANDLER DUPLICATING ORIGINALS

IN FOCUS

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Ben Affleck did it. So did Eddie Murphy and Charlie Chaplin. Heck, Alec Guinness did it eight times, including once as a woman. This weekend in Jack and Jill, Adam Sandler adds his name to the list of actors who have played multiple roles in the same film.

"In Jack and Jill I play me," says Sandler, "and I play my twin sister. The man version of me is doing OK; he has a family out in L.A. The twin-sister version of me lives out in the Bronx and comes out to L.A. for Thanksgiving and then refuses to leave."

The idea of playing more than one role in a movie dates back to the Mary Pickford 1918 weepy Stella Maris.

In it she plays the wealthy title character and the uneducated orphan Unity Blake.

The studio balked at her insistence on playing both roles, but Pickford insisted.

As Stella she was photographed like a glamorous movie star, but as Unity she wore unflattering makeup and was shot from her right, less photogenic, side. Scenes where the two characters shared the screen were achieved through double exposure.

Since then everyone from Mel Brooks (he was President Skroob and Yogurt in Spaceballs), to David Carradine (remember him in Circle of Iron as The Blind Man, Mon-keyman, Death, and Changsha?) to Peter Sellers (who played as Group Captain Lionel Mandrake, President Merkin Muffley, and Dr. Strangelove in Dr. Strangelove or: How I

"The idea of playing more than one role in a movie dates back to the Mary Pickford 1918 weepy Stella Maris."

Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb) have taken on multi-roles.

Perhaps because of their sketch comedy backgrounds, Eddie Murphy and Mike Myers often take on various roles in their films, but Alec Guinness, the actor best known in North America as Jedi knight Obi-Wan Kenobi, must hold the record for character changes in one feature-length movie.

In Kind Hearts and Coronets he plays no less than eight characters.

In an acting tour de force he's easily recognizable in each part, but doesn't repeat himself from character to character. Instead he carefully constructs each, from the happy-go-lucky young photographer to the window-smashing suffragette Lady Agatha.

Rivaling Guinness's achievement is Buster Keaton who played every part — including a stagehand, a dance troupe, a full band and every member in the audience — in the 1921 short film The Play House.

To top it off he also took credit for every crew job including editor, director, writer and cameraman.

Ratner sorry for slur

► Tower Heist director apologizes for gay remark ► Academy accepts it

Brett Ratner said Monday that he's sorry for using a gay slur during a question-and-answer session at a screening for his new film.

The 42-year-old filmmaker, who is set to produce next year's Academy Awards, issued a statement apologizing "for any offence my remarks caused."

Ratner used a pejorative term to describe gay men in response to a question asked at a screening of his latest movie, Tower Heist.

"It was a dumb way of expressing myself," Ratner said in his statement. "Everyone who knows me knows that I don't have a prejudiced bone in my body. But as a storyteller I should have been much more thoughtful about the power of language and my choice of words."

Tom Sherak, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, said Monday that Ratner's remarks were "inappropriate" but the academy isn't planning to remove him from his Oscar-producing position.

"The bottom line is, this won't and can't happen again. It will not happen again," Sherak said. "The apology he gave I truly believe comes from his heart."

MORE ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY

PRIUS V'S ADVANCED DESIGN DELIVERS UNRIVALLED FUEL EFFICIENCY AND CARGO SPACE

Toyota's newly launched 2012 Prius v boasts more advanced technology that guarantees every last drop of fuel you pay for is used efficiently, meaning you get more kilometers on less fuel, thanks to the car's Hybrid Synergy Drive technology.

Developed by Toyota, the Hybrid Synergy Drive technology allows Prius v to operate in three modes — gas only, electric motor only or a combination of the two — and automatically allocates power in the most efficient way by switching back and forth from the gas engine to the electric motor thanks to a power split device. Essentially, it's like having three engines in one.

So, when you're starting the car, or driving at low speeds, Prius v is powered solely by the electric motor. If you find yourself stopped at a light, Prius v will automatically switch off to conserve fuel and electricity. Then, when you need to accelerate quickly, the electric motor re-starts automatically and teams up with the gas engine for a smooth acceleration. And when you're at higher speeds, the gas engine does most of the work while the electric motor kicks in when needed. The Hybrid Synergy Drive ensures each mode is operating at its peak efficiency.

The process might sound complicated, but it all boils down to the best combination of power and fuel efficiency. And no matter what mode is engaged, Prius v's advanced technology results in a smooth ride where you'll feel as though you're just gliding along the road.

Essentially, you get the best features of both a gasoline engine and an electric motor system in one car as well as much more cargo space. In fact, Prius v's cargo space rivals that of many SUVs, which use up far more fuel.

Aside from its unsurpassed fuel efficiency, the Prius v produces 66 per cent fewer smog-forming emissions than most conventionally powered new cars. In fact, although diesel vehicles can achieve high fuel efficiency as well, they are estimated to produce 17 times the amount of smog-forming emissions than cars with the Hybrid Synergy Drive technology.

The reasoning is simple. Toyota's HSD technology allows Prius v to use less fuel, and because of that, it produces fewer emissions. So, while your wallet benefits from driving a Prius v, the environment benefits as well. And that means a lot to environmentally conscious Canadians today.

The bottom line is Prius v offers drivers maximum drivability, outstanding fuel efficiency and enough cargo space to cope with the every day needs of Canadians. And with the holiday season almost upon us, who couldn't use some extra cargo space and fuel savings?

With Prius v, drivers no longer have to choose between fuel efficiency and versatility; they can enjoy the best of both in one car.

A set of digital readouts located on the ECO driver monitor provides constant feedback to the driver. You can instantaneously monitor your fuel consumption or use the Hybrid System indicator to help optimize your fuel efficiency

Prius v offers different modes for different types of driving. ECO mode helps reduce fuel consumption. EV mode runs solely on battery power for up to 1.6 kms under certain conditions. And Power mode increases gas pedal response for enhanced acceleration

THE PERFECT HYBRID

Toyota's 2012 Prius v truly is the perfect hybrid for all Canadians. It not only boasts more cargo space than the original, allowing drivers to reconfigure the back and front passenger seats to suit their needs, but it's good for the environment and offers great fuel efficiency, thanks to its advanced hybrid technology. Whether you're transporting sports equipment, loading bulky items from big box stores, helping a friend move, or packing the car full of passengers and luggage for a road trip, Prius v can handle anything you throw at it. Best of all, it's still an easy-to-handle mid-sized car that easily gets around the city.

Melissa McCarthy promotes Ivory — and jumpsuits

► She was by far the funniest and most likeable Bridesmaid ► Now the Mike & Molly star is developing her own plus-sized clothing line

THE WORD

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

After she took the stage to launch Ivory Soap's new Soap Dish Facebook community for moms in New York City on Monday night — and was presented with a giant bar of Ivory carved in her likeness — Melissa McCarthy took a few moments to chat with Metro about the possibility of a sequel to Bridesmaids, the summer blockbuster that made her a household name.

"[It's a] yes for me, [but I] don't know that it's happening," she told us.

"I'll basically show up anywhere with those women — even if it's like a long bus trip, I'll go with them — but no talk of it yet. I think everyone's so busy. But I wouldn't mind it down the road just because I love that group."

McCarthy is indeed keeping very busy.

Not only did she win an Emmy this year for her sitcom Mike & Molly, but she's also developing her own clothing line for plus-sized women.

"It's so preliminary right now. I know I want a jumpsuit in it. I'm not afraid of it. I love a jumpsuit."

And when we asked if she's creating the line to be a role model for girls who aren't a size zero, the awesome actress just laughs.

"No, I think I'm just selfishly making it for myself!"

She elaborates: "I want separates, for the love of God, because everything's like a bad prom dress. You can find a million bad sleeveless dresses in satin. I'm like, 'Where's a good blouse and great trouser?'"

Hugh Hefner is excited about Lindsay Lohan's upcoming appearance in Playboy, saying the actress' all-revealing photo spread is "classy, very classy," he tells the Insider.

And apparently readers will be treated to Lohan's words as well.

Big Apple shopping

► The holiday season in New York kicks off with American Thanksgiving ► The city celebrates the upcoming retail-mad months with glittering events, jolly gift markets and traffic-stopping window displays ► Try one-stop shops to maximize gift-buying time

EMMA E. FORREST
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

New York is one of the most iconic places for Christmas shopping. Not only does the city display how to shop for the holidays in style, but the shopping season starts early, too.

Holiday shopping in the Big Apple kicks off with the Thanksgiving Day festival, on the third Thursday of November. The festival is marked by the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, a colourful event that snakes all the way across Manhattan to the famous department store.

The next day is one of the biggest shopping days of the year — Black Friday. This crazy day of sales takes place on the Friday after Thanksgiving Day, with bargain-hunters taking the day off work to line up overnight to catch the best discounts.

From then on, it's open season on the shopping front. There are several holiday markets offering a mix of gift ideas. Bryant Park is home to booths selling clothes, quirky gifts, crafts and jewelry at The Holiday Shops (Until Jan. 8, theholidayshopsatbryantpark.com). You'll find more than 100 red and white booths selling affordable gifts, as well as vouchers for local stores, at the Union Square Holiday Market (Nov. 18 to Dec. 24, urban-spacenyc.com) and Columbus Circle Holiday Market at the south west entrance of Central Park (Nov. 30 to Dec. 24, urban-

As well as providing a brilliant one-stop gift shop for time-poor tourists, department stores from Bloomingdales and Macy's to toystore FAO Schwartz compete to feature the most dazzling window displays during the festive season. This year hip department store Barneys even gets a Lady Gaga-inspired twist, with windows and men's floor decked out as "Gaga's Workshop" (barneys.com).

► Lonely Planet picks their Top 10 regions you should visit in 2012 ► The Maritime provinces make the cut Lonely Planet has chosen Canada's Maritime provinces as one of the top 10 regions in the world to visit in 2012, citing the area's newfound appeal for food-minded travellers.

Distilleries that turn P.E.I. potatoes into "silky vodka," organic wineries that crush Nova Scotia grapes, oyster cafes, mushroom-foraging tours and cheese-making classes are among the attractions, the guidebook publisher says.

As well, the Maritimes — ranked seventh on the list — will be marking the 100th anniversary of the Titanic disaster next year.

In the No. 1 spot is coastal Wales, which will see the completion in 2012 of the All Wales Coast Path.

The Mayan Route — spanning the Yucatan Peninsula and Chiapas in Mexico, as well as Belize, Guatemala and Honduras — is No. 2. "Maya mania" surrounding end-of-the-world prophecies has put the region in the spotlight.

No. 3 is northern Kenya, where a huge road construction project is underway.

Next year might be the last chance to experience "one of Africa's greatest adventures in all its dusty and pot-holed glory," says Lonely Planet.

(Note, however, that Canada's Department of Foreign Affairs advises against all travel to north-east Kenya within 150 kilometres of the Somali border due to the risk of kidnapping and attack.)

Others on the list: Arunachal Pradesh, India; Hvar, Croatia; Sicily; Queenstown and Southern Lakes, New Zealand; Borneo; Poitou-Charentes, France.

Become a workplace rockstar

► Within that suit is a smartypants waiting to sing a song of success ► Five tips to tapping into your inner genius

MEREDITH ENGEL

LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

It doesn't require any superhuman abilities to excel at your workplace, says Gina Rudan, author of Practical Genius.

Take note as Rudan lists her five steps to turn you into the worker everyone wants to be.

Identify your genius

"Take time to do a self-diagnosis of the six ingredients that I argue contribute to genius: values, passion, creative abilities, strength, skills and expertise.

Think, 'in my own life, what are my values, creative abilities and passions?' I consider those to be a person's soft personal assets.

People have been conditioned to focus on their professional identity, so they don't really think about their values.

Then I ask them to think about their professional hard assets, which are strengths, skills and expertise. When I ask people about to tell me their strengths, a lot of people know because this is what they are measured against in their performance evaluations.

► Don't be afraid to get loud and express your true self.

The next challenge is to identify where the soft and the hard intersect. That, to me, is where genius resides: It's between the heart and the mind, between what you love and what you are good at.

A lot of us check half of ourselves at the revolving doors of our offices — we can no longer do that if we want to be competitive, innovative.

You think only the logic, strategic and professional side of who you are matters at work, but that is no longer the case. The whole self matters."

Surround yourself with genius

"Look at who you are spending your time with. Sometimes, you have to remove people. That is the hard reality."

Express your genius

"Express' is about telling your true story. Check out your resumé. Is it showing the whole picture, or just half of who you are?

If you have a blog, are you truly expressing all sides of yourself? Most of us only express one side of who we are: Moms tell mom stories. Lawyers tell lawyer stories. Doctors tell doctor stories. Expressing genius is about really sharing the full story of who you are, and learning how to play with the tools available for effective storytelling.

We are living in a communications-on-steroids environment, so expression today really matters, online and offline."

Sustain your genius

"This is about paying attention to what you eat, exercising and feeling the body. This is a lifestyle proposition. A lot of people know what they should be doing to stay healthy, but not a lot of people make the connection that if you don't take care of your body and

Socially smart

Rudan recommends finding the following types of people to help you bring out your full potential.

► Yodas Your mentors

► Ambassadors: "Connectors," she says. "People who are going to introduce you to others and be your cheerleader."

► Fat brains: People under 30. "They are brilliant. I think that a 'fat brain' should sit on every corporate board. Multigenerational relationships work."

mind, you are losing competitive advantage."

Market your genius

"Everyone has this bitter-sweet opposing force within them, which I call a 'paradox.'

Everyone should market their paradox. A lot of us try to conform and be one way, or be what our organization wants us to be. That's not appealing.

You need to out your difference, and that means that if you play in a band and you are a CEO, you need share that. If you are a lawyer who is also a former graffiti artist, well, that's fascinating. People care about how different you are, how unique you are."

STUDENT VOICE

VERED BEN
TALENTEGG.CA

I began working well before I started university. I loved working with children and found summer and after-school jobs first as a babysitter, then at a camp and then at a daycare. After high school, I travelled and took courses abroad and came back around the winter semester.

Since I intended to pursue a kinesiology arts degree, I enrolled in courses to become certified as a personal trainer and pilates instructor. I knew it would be difficult to find a well paying part-time position as a student and I realized that being certified would allow me to earn money to pay for my education and also gain relevant experience during my studies in kinesiology.

What I learned

Key take-aways from Vered's experience.

- ▶ Figure out what you love doing and develop a plan to turn it into a job.
- ▶ If you have a great idea for a business, don't be afraid to start one!

▶ Vered Ben wants students to realize that with a passionate idea and a little guidance from mentors, banks and school, anyone can start a successful business.

ology.

Soon after I became certified, I was excited to find a job at a local gym. But, when I returned to school full-time, my schedule often conflicted with work and it was difficult to balance both. So I quit my job.

I realized that starting my own fitness equipment and fitness apparel business might be a great idea since it would allow me to create my own work schedule. I did a little bit of further research on how one starts their own business and I discovered that it would require a lot of money, time and space — none of which I had.

Since I always loved making jewelry and designing, I decided that for the time being I would sell accessories. I found several suppliers, designed my website and logo with a major design company, and then launched my accessories business, veredben.com. In my third year as a student, I finally felt ready to pursue my passion in the fitness and health industry. I started V2Be, a fitness training program for women and girls. I developed a curriculum and launched an after school fitness program that focuses on healthy living and self-esteem building for children.

It has definitely been a challenge combining school with business, but it is absolutely amazing to have the flexibility of creating my own schedule and deciding how much work I want to put in and when. Although I am only doing this business part-time, I have the option of pursuing it full-time when I graduate.

Most career centres and schools focus a lot on grades, career options and resumés, and usually do not let students think outside the box when it comes to job searching. I think schools should help students see that working for

Sens rookie not so green

THE HOCKEY NEWS

MURRAY PAM

OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

Colin Greening has undeniably become another draft steal for the Ottawa Senators. The question is, was his selection at 204th overall in 2005 petty burglary or a royal jewel heist?

Time will tell, but in the short-term he's proving he has the substance and shine to be a serious Calder Trophy contender. The St. John's, N. L., native was runner-up to Edmonton's Ryan Nugent-Hopkins for October rookie of the month, sitting fifth among NHL freshmen with four goals and eight points in 15 games.

He has impressed with his Puritan work ethic, so much so that coach Paul MacLean elevated him to the top line and has rewarded Greening with an average of 17:21 of ice time, tops among first-year forwards in the league. He is also a central figure on the Senators' second-ranked power play, using every bit of his 6-foot-3, 211-pound frame to cause havoc in front of opposing netminders and defencemen.

Greening toils just as hard off the ice; Sens' director of player development Randy Lee has even compared Greening's fitness commitment to legendary workout fiend Zdeno Chara.

► Rookie Colin Greening sits fifth in Senators scoring with four goals and four assists in fifteen games this season.

A mature NHL greenhorn, Greening credits his big-league readiness to his decision to attend Cornell University for four years. At 25, he has much more life-experience than the average NHL teen.

"I am better prepared," he said. "I was able to live on my own, manage my life. I was able to take care of the hockey end."

Of course, being a child of the 1980s — he was born a year earlier than Sidney Crosby — could work against him when it comes to Calder voting. When you take into account he played 24 games last season, he just barely meets the eligibility requirements for rookie of the year honours. When a player reaches 25 NHL games and 26 years of age, he's no longer eligible for the top freshman award.

And history isn't on Greening's side. Since the lockout of 2004-05, no player older than 21 has won the award. Only two 25-year-olds have captured the Calder in the past 20 years: Ed Belfour in 1990-91 and Evgeni Nabokov in 2000-01. Both were goaltenders.

Still, even if Greening doesn't take home the silverware in June, the Senators have a keeper. Greening is locked up for the next two seasons at $817,000 per year, which by NHL standards is a huge bargain. Maybe even a steal.

Official says support for Paterno on Penn State board of trustees eroding

Support for keeping Joe Paterno in his job coaching Penn State football is eroding among the board of trustees, threatening to end the 84-year-old coach's career amid a child sex-abuse scandal involving a former assistant and one-time heir apparent.

A person familiar with the trustees' discussions and who used the term "eroding" said it was unclear what the consequences for Paterno will be and that a decision could be rendered before the board meets on Friday.

Penn State president Graham Spanier also has lost support among the board of trustees, the person said, but again, how much was unclear.

Paterno's son, Scott, said his father hasn't spoken with Penn State officials or trustees about stepping down.

Penn State administrators cancelled Paterno's weekly news conference during which he was expected to field questions about the sex abuse scandal involving former defensive co-ordinator Jerry Sandusky. Sandusky was arrested Saturday on charges of sexually abusing eight boys over 15 years. His lawyer has said Sandusky is innocent.

NBA LOCKOUT

Players reject offer

Union president Derek Fisher says his orders from NBA players are clear: No deal.

"The current offer on the table from the NBA is one that we cannot accept," he said yesterday.

Instead, the players said they will ask for another meeting with the owners before commissioner David Stern's afternoon deadline today.

Stern has said that if the players don't take the current deal by then, the league's next offer will be much worse.

The players insisted they will not be forced into taking a bad deal by an ultimatum.

"The players are saying that we understand their position, but unfortunately we're not intimidated by that," union executive director Billy Hunter said.

► Designer Peter Schreyer is known for the Audi A6 and the TT. Now he's known for the Kia Optima.

Can fuel-saving look this good?

MALCOLM GUNN
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA
WHEELBASE MEDIA

If your passion for cars is matched only by your determination to avoid $1.25/litre fuel stops, the Kia Optima Hybrid appears to have been built just for you.

The Korea-based automaker, part of the Hyundai organization, has been aggressively introducing an array of new products at a relentless pace.

As a result, the company's adolescent-like growth spurt has rapidly brought it into the automotive mainstream where previously it had been considered just a bit player.

For the 2011 model year, Kia issued forth an all new Optima sedan, designed by former Volkswagen-Audi stylist Peter Schreyer who is credited with the look of Audi's A6 sedan and sporty TT coupe and roadster.

Since his arrival at Kia back in 2006, the brand's design "language" has headed off in a completely different direction from parent Hyundai's.

The Optima and its gasoline-electric Hybrid offshoot are shining examples.

Both mid-size four-door sedans appear nearly identical, yet the Hybrid features a slightly different grille, unique 16-inch wheels and extra lower cladding, LED (Light Emitting Diode) tail lamps and a Hybrid badge affixed to the trunk lid.

BASE PRICE:
$32,000

By comparison

Toyota Camry Hybrid

Base price: $26,700
All-new 2012 version provides vastly improved fuel economy.

Hyundai Sonata Hybrid

Base price: $26,500
Kia's relation uses similar powertrain, but has significantly different styling.

Ford Fusion Hybrid

Base price: $29,400
Fuel-efficient Toyota-based technology works well and saves fuel.

Comfort and prestige defined last-gen Audi A8

SECOND GEAR

JUSTIN PRITCHARD
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

One of the best ways to cut through upcoming winter driving conditions is in the lap of German engineered AWD luxury from the driver's seat of an Audi A8.

The last-generation of Audi's flagship sedan model was available from 2004 to 2010.

It packed plenty of space, 8- or 12-cylinder power and Quattro All Wheel Drive (AWD) on all models. Translation? The A8 can comfortably eat any of Mother Nature's nastiest winter conditions for lunch.

Common issues

Numerous Audi owner forums recommend avoiding the first year (2004) of this A8 generation, as it seems less reliable. The A8 should also be scrutinized for electrical problems, with shoppers advised to ensure all power accessories, readouts and lights work as expected. Avoid A8 models with the adaptive air suspension, which will be expensive to fix if it fails. As a bare minimum, visit an Audi garage and have your used A8 candidate checked for coolant, oil and transmission fluid leaks.

Verdict

If you're comfortable with the potential maintenance pricetag, a well-maintained A8 will deliver confident, year-round motoring enjoyment in one of the market's most highly envied large sedans.

Engine

A8 came with a proven 4.2-litre V-8 developing between 330 and 350 horsepower.

A six-litre W-12 engine was also available with 450 horsepower.

What owners like

Owners rave about a sense of style, status and exclusivity, as well as a long list of safety features and the confidence of Quattro AWD.

Comfort, space and performance were all highly rated, too.

What owners dislike

Some owners wish their A8's were easier to park, and others wish for better fuel mileage. Finally, many A8 owners report a learning curve required to use the more advanced controls.
